Jake Jacinto That's true, but Tanduay also used to advertise for Cebu viewers ESQ (as seen in this video) and 5 Years. Still, 65 really stood out among the Cebuanos, no wonder. In fact, Tanduay 65 now has a new TV commercial, promoting its proud Cebuano identity.

Christan Maloles here is the full jingle of GMA Radio Television Arts (the thick brush-like beaming rainbow logo) in late 1989 or early 1990. and it goes something like this' "if the friends you always told, together in recent home, now raise the pope wait in their wings, with the colors tomorrow brings, this is where you belong, let us share the world with you! where you belong (you belong), where you belong (you belong), where you belong we can work with sight and sound, where you belong (where you belong) making rainbows with you all around, you have found! Where You Belong... Where You Belong! (three-note powerful music)".

Jake Jacinto David, it turns out that even during the late 80's and early 90's, using recycled ads from an old era are very common among TV stations and advertisers.

Another example of a "recycled" ad I can cite is the commercial of Stik-O Wafer Sticks by Ecco Foods, which was originally aired in the late 90's or early 2000's. The last time I saw that ad, if I remember correctly, was during Primetime Bida wayback Summer 2014.

Jake Jacinto Nice jingle indeed. Sa totoo lang, those 70's, 80's, and 90's TV commercials make more good meanings and sense. Sayang lang dahil halos lahat ng mga TV commercials ngayon, they're not promoting good values. Buti na lang, may Araw Values Awards every year in which I pick its nominees and winners as the ads worth watching, listening, and seeing to the smart ad looker.

Kyle Florencio Hmmm. Parang rough film to tape telecine process transfer pala ang ginagamit sa ad na ito basing on the first and last parts of the video and medyo may mali sa alignment ng picture.

Sa end ito ng advertiser nung ipinadala yung material to the network for airing.
For your recording, walang issue in terms of sync or picture.

Nevertheless, this is one good ad. I didn't know that may mga ganitong ads si Kodak PH that are similar to their campaigns in the US.

Learning old technologies and revisiting parts of Philippine TV is quite fascinating especially that there are a lot of missing links with our TV history.

I also had visited some TV stations and I've seen how their systems work and I also seen some TVC shoots 10 years ago.

My background is kinda different though, I'm more into entrepreneurship and IT.

Kyle Florencio I guess the reason why there are B&W Commercials in 1980 could be attributed with the slow nationwide adoption of color TVs in Filipino homes despite being introduced in 1966.

Since this was aired on Q1 1980, this could have been produced in 1979.

This could be meant for a nationwide airing and producing TV commercials in B&W would be cheaper since they use 35mm films as a medium for production.
From the looks of the ad, low budget siya kaya understandable ang B&W format.

Ganito rin ang kaso sa South Korea in the same era.

Thanks for uploading this ad Sir Jojo, I can use this as an example for a future work.

Jake Jacinto As what I've remembered reading from a blog before, this Mr. Clean TV commercial was originally aired from 1975.

Since it had the tagline, "Siguro ang gumawa ng Mr. Clean... ay nanay din!", which, according to a comment in an Isa Munang Patalastas article (see <http://isamunangpatalastas.blogspot.com/.../80-konting...>), is Mr. Clean's introductory ad in our country, this justifies my claim that this was from 1975, citing from the P&G Phil. Brand History website.

Ferdie Rotoni Channel 13 was the number 1 tv station during the 80's.

Their next station ID was "Pusong Pinoy, Pusong Trese" then the last is "Life Begins at 13".

I know this because my Dad used to work there, he use to bring me at the set of "Kulit Bulilit".

Unfortunately during the Aquino Administration, Channel 13 was sequestered, the people she appointed to lead the company doesn't know anything about broadcasting, ginatasan pa ang kumpanya.

Ratings went down, most talents transferred to ABS CBN an Aquino ally.

So channel 13 went from number 1 to 0, goes with it are our way of life. 😞

I am not dwelling into politics, I'm just stating what happened. 😞

Kyle Oliva The late Ernie Angeles also found some work for the then newly founded DZMM of ABS-CBN in '86. He did its first SID, the same which was re-voiced by Peter Musngi some four years later. And the original Champoy on The Leader was actually cancelled because of its jokes that are against the Marcoses, same with the late Butz Aquino's show (RPN owner Roberto Benedicto was a Marcos crony). And diba RPN actually adapted its on-screen clock from that of Japanese TV networks TV Asahi, TV Tokyo and Fuji TV.

Ferdie Rotoni If I am not mistaken, Gary Lising was also part of that show. Champoy is the Bubble Gang of the 80's and early 90's.
I could still remember this scene -

Ang Swimming Pool

Subas Herrero: calling

Tessie Tomas: Hello po!

Subas Herrero: Inday, kausapin ko

Ma'am mo.

Tessie Tomas: Ay Sir.... ano... po...kasi..

Subas Herrero: Bat di ka ma ka sagot?

Tessie Tomas: Eh si Ma'am po nasa

kuwarto..... may kasamang lalaki...

Subas Herrero: Sabi ko na nga ba eh!

Tama ang hinala ko!

Pumunta ka sa bodega,

sa tool box may susi ng

kuwarto doon, sa ilalim

nun may baril. Buksan

mo yung pinto at barilin

mo silang pareho!

Tessie Tomas: Sir na tatakot po ako?!

Subar Herrero: Huwag kng ma takot, ako ang bahala sa iyo.

Tessie Tomas: Sige po Sir.....(after how many minutes) Sir patay

na po sila, na tatakot po ako.....

Subas Herrero: Huwag kng ma takot eto

ang gagawin mo, ibalot

mo yung 2 sa kumot,

tapos itapon mo sa
swimming pool.
Tessie Tomas: Sir sa swimming pool po?
Subas Herrero: Oo sa swimming pool?!
Tessie Tomas: Eh Sir, wala po tayong
swimming pool.
Subas Herrero: Ha?! Teka nga, kanina
ko pa na papansin, parang iba ang boses
ano bang telephone number neto?
Tessie Tomas: Sir 886-546.
Subas Herrero: Kaya naman pala eh, wrong number,
salamat na Ing!
Tessie Tomas: Sir!!!..... 😞

Kyle Florencio Fact: 3D's name comes from the English translation of Mitsubishi, meaning Three Diamonds.

Northern Islands Co. Inc. (owner of 3D) had an exclusive agreement with Mitsubishi Electric where the former used the latter's technologies and design.

Things had changed when NICI stopped renewing their contract with Mitsubishi. The company suffered from ownership issues and had streamlined their operations.

As of now, most of their appliances are outsourced in China.

Damn, lupet talaga ng page na to. Kung anu-anong mga lost gems na nahahalungkat, coupled with the best equipment and TLC.

Jonathan Panlaqui ABS-CBN doesn't aired the Tyson-Spinks fight because of commercial breaks. Years later when Tyson bites off Evander Holyfield's ears in a fight. The delay of airing of Tyson-Spinks fight was the most controversial event done by ABS-CBN when the network doesn't aired the fight due to longer commercial breaks and after that, the live feed of the fight was gone from the air that many viewers disappointed. Later fights were aired on GMA-7 and RPN-9 but they continued with no commercial breaks for up to 12 rounds rather than ABS-CBN did not aired the fight so the network paid more than P500,000 of damages in it. In addition, the NBA Playoffs and Finals games (including the All-Star Weekend), and the Miss Universe Pageants were aired unaffected by longer commercial breaks since it reopened in September 1986.

Jonathan Panlaqui That time, "The Leader" slogan and era were introduced on RPN in 1980, first, the logo was a satellite dish with the acronym RPN on one side at the right corner (two curves, a long diagonal line, and connecting horizontal and vertical lines with a connecting short diagonal line that forms the letters R, P and N that means Radio Philippines Network) and the other, tricolored curve bars of red, green and blue which forms the station's first color broadcasts on the left corner, it was used from 1980-82, the modified 1969 version of the Channel 9 logo was used alongside being used in twin versions from 1969-75 and from 1977-80. Later on, a new RPN logo with a white RPN text on a red rectangle and a blue snail shell Channel 9 logo with the white number 9 in the center and with their slogan in red text (the first version) from 1982-86 and later replaced with a blue text (the second version) from 1986-89, "The Leader" branding was later introduced on the Cebu-based station DYKC-TV in the same year and by 1986, its Davao-based station DXWW-TV (formerly DXAS-TV channel 4 from 1974-86, [formerly channel 2 from 1972-74, the former DXAW-TV] which later returned back to ABS-CBN in 1988) among other stations. Both the three kinds of brandings and the slogan were served for nine years until 1989, the time when New Vision 9 logo and its branding were introduced noted for the metallic roundel 9 logo of metallic shade colors (white, golden yellow [for the edges of the roundel and the metallic number 9], brown and light blue-gray) with a text in golden yellow containing the words New Vision in wavy form and its slogan The Future (in Times New Roman) by replacing the RPN "The Leader" brandings (the illuminated green silhouetted version appears only in the MEGA Cinema Review titlecard and bumper from 1989-94, when I watched since I was young), until later reverted back to RPN as "The Network" in 1994, noted for its simple roundel with the Earth as its planet.

Jonathan Panlaqui Ok. That's right Sir Jake. That time, ABS-CBN wasn't existed there under Martial Law and Marcos's regime since it was silent on September 23, 1972 and lasted for 14 years until its reopening on September 14, 1986, seven months after the iconic EDSA Revolution. Since then, RPN introduced its Domestic Satellite (DOMSAT) broadcasts in 1980, allowing most of its programs (including the ever popular Eat Bulaga under the RPN days) and newscasts live from Manila will be carried to the provinces, cities and towns nationwide since the logo became popular.

Jake Jacinto Kyle (Florencio), actually the "Ice Cream Division" was a sub-division of the URC/CFC's Dairy Products Division, based on an April 1979 ad for Presto Ice Cream (which I saw on the back cover of Women's Journal's April 14, 1979 issue which I have in my family's magazine collection).

Speaking of April 1979, the ad stated that Presto's Favorite for that month was "Pineapple Dapple." Sooner or later, if my time permits me to do so, I might as well post that print ad.

"Tawa" Marcelo na sinundan pa ng SID. Noon, mas malakas pa raw ang signal ng analog channel 13 mula sa kanilang transmitter habang sikat pa rin ang IBC-13 mula pa noong 1975, kaysa sa ngayon na malabong malabo na raw sa TV.

Close-Up

May 6 · 1.2K views

After this, Close-Up started coming up with hip TVC's to capture the growing teen market. In fact two of my high school friends came out in those ads and eventually adopting the now iconic jingle "Just a Smile Away" as the core campaign.

Christan Maloles Sir Jojo, can you please upload old TV Commercials of all the now defunct and current products of Philippine Refining Company (PRC) from the 1960's?

FYI: Home videotape recorders didn't exist in the 1960s until the introduction of U-Matic in 1971 kaya huwag ka nang umasa na makakapag-upload siya from the 1960s.

Sir Jojo's collection starts from 1974 pero hindi ibig sabihin ay kaya niya nang ma-fulfill yung mga requests mo.

Hindi yan nanggagaling sa ad agency or network since those are from home recordings.

Take note that tapes from his collection may need restoration and he needs a functioning U-Matic player. Yung mga 80s videos niya are mostly in Beta and Super Beta.

Kung gusto mong mapabilis yung pag-upload niya ng ads, help him.

Perry Patts Yes, film reels were released as early as the 1930s when television had its test broadcasts with different standards pero kung you're asking him to upload as early as the 1960s. Impossible yan unless if someone loans or gives him a tape containing ads from film or Quad tape transfers.

Nung 1960s, Quad tapes ang ginagamit for ads and I don't think that Sir Jojo could have that kind of equipment lalo na't space consuming yan at mahal.

Jake Jacinto Fluorgel was Close-up's kiddie toothpaste version and, if I'm not mistaken, the second toothpaste product in the Philippines that was kiddie-oriented after Proof by Colgate which is introduced in 1974 or '75.

On the other hand, Colgate only began to be kiddie-oriented (though in a conscious way) when the Eric Baines TVC series was first launched in 1981. But it was the introduction of their Winter Fresh Gel variant in 1984 which made Colgate a kiddie-oriented product.

Today, the Colgate variant that rivals Close-up is their Fresh Confidence product range.

Jonathan Panlaqui Actually, the Enjoy Yourself slogan was used from 1978-86, that the logo is consisted of twin white circles with dozens of thin red, yellow and blue rings, and with the acronym IBC (for the Intercontinental Broadcasting Corporation) and the number 13 (in light yellow), it was first used for the 1978-79 SID from 1978-79, later simplified with the multicolored logo with the IBC-13 trademark from 1979-80 and the modified IBC-13 logo from 1980-87, in which the trademark text is metallic yellow-orange laid in twin orange circles derived from the original 1978 logo. After the EDSA Revolution, the slogan and its branding was replaced by the BPT logo with the slogan Basta Pinoy Sa Trese on a black ribbon at the center of the logo (the text is white) and the letters B, P and T (in light tan) laid in a brown oval and the modified 1980 IBC-13 logo on the bottom right, it was used from 1986-87.

James Arvin Domingo @View on the 3rd - Jojo Bailon, what about also the classic ads of Ginebra San Miguel circa 1980-1986 which was the most memorable slogan "Walang Katapat!" if you may have? Its ad feature went something like this, "Inumin ng tunay na lalaki, Ginebra San Miguel. Walang katapat!"

Jake Jacinto At the height of the "Walang Katapat" campaign, in 1983, Ginebra San Miguel launched the "Instant Pera atbp." promo, which requires contestants to look under the crown or plastic cap of Ginebra San Miguel and see if they won a prize (cash or T-shirt). The promo ended on December 31, 1983.

Anyway, some of the "Walang Katapat" ads had a "Drink Moderately" message in Filipino at the end, which roughly translates to, "Uminom ng katamtaman lamang."

Jake Jacinto At that time this Superwheel TV commercial was first released, the then best-selleing detergent bar of PRC was just fresh from a new logo and packaging wrapper, which happened in mid or late 1979. Then, Superwheel modified their logo again in 1985 where their "wheel" logo was placed at the left, before the text "Superwheel." Likewise, the text was also modified as the rest of the letters used in the "Superwheel" mark were placed in lower-case form, but the font stayed the same.

Prior to that shortly, a non-local 7-Up ad with Fido Dido was followed by Knorr Sinangag Mix ad (endorsed by its commercial model Ms. Donna Casas who shortly sang "Ako ang sinangag queen!...." which was strongly reworded a classic song "Ako ang Nagwagi" by Dulce) during Million Dollar Movies on ABS-CBN 2 in 1990.

Jonathan Panlaqui Actually Sir Jojo, all of IBC-13's TVCs are aired during commercial breaks while airing most of its programs such as sitcoms, drama series and anthologies, fantasy series, action shows, variety and musicals, gameshows, children's programs, cartoons, and anime and tokusatsu programs as well as newscasts and hourly news updates, at the time, when the network became popular from 1975-2007. When the message being appeared on a sign-on/off station notice showing "All programs and commercial materials shown on this channel have been previewed and approved by the Movie and Television Review and Classification Board (MTRCB)" which means all of the TVCs done by advertisers must be previewed and approved by the board before being shown. Until after the EDSA Revolution in 1986, the network's sequesterment and losses from the network war by the rival ABS-CBN caused IBC-13's airtime and TVCs went disappeared, forcing advertisers to loose revenues from TVCs as did their TV programs have been cancelled and few others were pirated by the revived network (that is ABS-CBN). Even popularity was faded as IBC-13's ratings became dead last from being

#1 in the spot between 1989 and 1990 (during these times, they were under the Pusong Pinoy, Pusong Trese and Islands TV-13 eras).

Jake Jacinto Yes, that quality downfall was at the height of the fantasy invasion on TV, when GMA went all-out with such shows like Mulawin, Encantadia, Darna, Captain Barbell, etc.

While ABS-CBN pioneered the genre of multi-weekly fantasy primetime dramas with Marina, it was GMA who really took it to the next level. However, the cost of producing fantaseryes took a toll on GMA Network's long-term plans, and by 2009, when GMA couldn't think of a game-changing trend, ABS-CBN finally regained the top spot in the Filipino TV ratings, and would remain that way up to this day.

Kyle Oliva Jake, I'm sure were curious about this: after the ratings scandal in '08 that involved both stations, they ended up having separate media agencies that monitor the audience share of their programs genre-wise (Kantar for ABS, DZMM and MOR, AGB for GMA, BB and LS). So confusing at which network is the real no. 1, ain't it?

Kyle Oliva Ymman, 1987 yun, the Star Network campaign helped ABS-CBN regain their lead in the ratings. And thus sila ang naghari until 2004. From the late 80s till the early 200s, ABS-CBN was the leader in ratings, and contributing to that are newscasts TV Patrol and The World Tonight, Japanese tokusatsu, American favorites, sitcoms, variety shows (including Eat Bulaga), dramas like Mara Clara, Esperanza and the original Pangako Sa'yo and many others that brought lots of fun memories to Kapamilyas.

Jake Jacinto FYI: Kantar Media Philippines' TV ratings coverage is both the urban and rural areas, while Nielsen only focuses on the most urban of the urban areas.

And, surprisingly, people from the rural areas have purchasing power just like those from the urban communities.
